HIS OWN PARTY

President Logically Insists That Responsible Officials Shall Be Republicans.

Washington, April 8.—That President Harding should be commended for making changes in supervisory positions in the government service with a view to attaining efficiency and that measure of economy which is necessary in order to reduce taxes, is the assertion of the Republican Publicity Association, in a statement issued through the president of that association, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr. The statement says:

The Republican Administration at Washington, with President Harding at its head, is keenly alive to the baneful influence of the many Democrats who were appointed during the Wilson regime, and who have been tolerated in their positions up to the present time. Many officials in places of importance are known to be on the most intimate terms with Mr. Tumulty, who maintains an office at the National Capital. They were part of the most extravagant and inefficient administration in American history.

Mr. Harding has taken plenty of time to satisfy himself of the true conditions, and has accumulated sufficient evidence to warrant drastic action.

The wholesale cleanup of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is part of the effort to reorganize the Federal service along lines of Republican sympathy and cooperation.

There can be no just criticism of President Harding for what he is doing; rather should he be congratulated for his latest move toward Federal efficiency. Practically every office holder in a position of power or influence under the former administration was appointed because of his value as a political prop to the Wilson-McAdoo-Burleson-Tumulty machine. Those appointees knew they were selected, and they also knew that their tenure of office depended on loyalty to that machine. Republican policies are almost a complete reversal of those that obtained when Mr. Wilson was President. The closest cooperation is essential if the people are to get the sort of government they have a right to expect after the overwhelming Republican vote that put President Harding in the White House. That cooperation will be fatally defective if it is going to depend on Wilson holdovers for success.

Furthermore the Republicans have assumed entire responsibility for the conduct of the Government while they are in control, and the people of the country will hold the party accountable for whatever mistakes may be made. That being the fact, President Harding must be accorded the right of selecting his own assistants. Not only Cabinet officers but subordinate officials having supervisory authority in directing the management of public business should be men who believe that the President's policies are sound and who are willing to do their full part toward making them a success.

WOMAN FATALLY BURNED

Mrs. Arthur J. Titus Meets Sad Fate, When Kettle of Doughnut Fat Upsets.

A shocking tragedy took place at the corner of Limerock and Broad streets yesterday forenoon, when the upsetting of a kettle of doughnut fat caused burns from which Mrs. Arthur J. Titus died late in the afternoon at the Silsby Hospital. Directly opposite the Titus home a similar tragedy occurred a few years ago, and it was a member of the Titus family who first went to the assistance of the unfortunate victim.

The exact nature of yesterday's accident is not known. One report says that Mrs. Titus had been called to the telephone, and upon hanging up the receiver turned to find the kettle of doughnut fat alight. In her attempt to extinguish the blaze her clothing caught fire. Investigation later showed that the kettle was tipped.

Near the gas range on which the kettle stood was a window which opened onto the southern lawn. Mrs. Titus, who was alone in the house, leaped through this window screaming terribly in the hope of attracting the occupants of the O'Donnell house, which adjoins.

Her outcries were heard by those inside, but before she could be located the flames had been rapidly fanned, and her garments were all afire. It was this awful spectacle which Mrs. Walter J. Rich and Mrs. Augustus Doherty beheld as they hurried from their apartments in the Blackington house on the opposite side of the street.

Mrs. Rich had the presence of mind to take a rug as she left the house, and this she wrapped around Mrs. Titus in the attempt to extinguish the flames. In so doing one of her own hands was most painfully burned.

Before assistance came Mrs. Titus had made frantic attempts to quell the flames by rolling upon the damp lawn. She was taken into the O'Donnell house pending the arrival of the ambulance. With the latter came Dr. R. J. Waggatt, who caused the woman to be removed to the hospital after applying such first aid methods as were possible. Mrs. Titus' husband, who is employed by the J. W. A. Cigar Co., also arrived at this time and accompanied her to the hospital. "Oh, why did I try to do it?" she moaned repeatedly.

The fire department was summoned to the Titus residence, but there was little to require its services. A small hole burned in the kitchen floor. The tragedy had been enacted.

Mrs. Titus was 44 years of age, and a native of Rockland, her maiden name being Lena M. Crouch. She had lost both parents within a few years, and had also given a daughter's loving care to the parents of her husband, the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Titus. Love for her family and home was the uppermost sentiment, and into her daily duties were woven all the affection that a devoted wife and mother could give. She is survived by her husband and three children—Kenneth, a High school student, prominent in athletics; Thelma and Earl.

The funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. from the residence.

FOR THE "AMERICAN PLAN"

Granite Manufacturers Decide On Open Shop As Far As the Quarry Workers Are Concerned.

Endorsement of the so-called "American plan," whereby granite quarrying operations will be resumed at once on the basis of the open shop, was unanimously given yesterday by representatives of six large granite manufacturing concerns which were employing approximately 700 men when the strike of April 1st went into effect.

The maximum wage for first class quarrymen was fixed at 50 cents an hour, while other grades will receive remuneration commensurate with the ability and general work of the laborer; this to be determined by the superintendents of the respective quarries and cutting plants.

"Every man, whether a member of a union or not, will be given an opportunity to work in our quarries," was the statement made by the manufacturers' spokesman.

The companies represented at yesterday's meeting were the Booth Brothers & Hurricane Isle Granite Co., Joseph Leopold & Co., John Meehan & Son, St. George Granite Co., Roberts Harbor Granite Co. and Hooper, Borland & Staples. The quarries affected by the action are located in Vinahaven, Clark Island, Long Cove, Wildcat, Swan's Island and Hall Quarry.

It was stated that yesterday's decision is in keeping with the general attitude of the trade throughout New England following the inability of the manufacturers and the union men to agree on a contract bill of prices.

The decision reached by the manufacturers yesterday affects only the quarrymen's union, which gives employment to unskilled labor. Negotiations with the paving cutters' union are still pending.

WONDERFUL SEASON OF POLO

Rockland's Losses Came Mainly Before Present Brilliant Team Was Assembled—Portland Thursday Night.

Thursday night's game between Rockland and Portland will be the concluding chapter of a dramatic polo season, in which Rockland has elected to play teams of a superior calibre, rather than build up a large percentage of victories at the expense of weaker teams. Twenty-four games have been played, Rockland winning 10 and losing 14. How small the margin of defeat has been may be judged from the fact that its opponents scored only 20 more goals in the two dozen contests. Rockland is credited with having caged the ball 109 times while its opponents made 129 goals. It lost but two. It is idle to speculate what the result would have been if this city had been represented by the same team from the beginning, but it is safe to say that the defeats could have been pretty nearly counted on one hand.

The revival of roller polo in this city, after a lapse of 16 years was the task which confronted the little group of devoted fans which met at the store of the Thomas Sporting Goods Co. last fall. The younger generation knew polo, only as they had heard its praises sung by their elders. It was not easy to see where two teams could be found to say nothing of enough contestants for the proposed amateur league. Willis L. Ayer, who had interesting recollections of the thrilling sport, was positive that it could be done, while Mr. Thomas, a devotee of all sports, was willing to put his time and energy into the proposition. Another valuable factor in those formative days was A. C. McLoon, who had captained the Majors, one of the last teams which had represented Rockland. Other loyal sports put their shoulders to the wheel, but to the three above mentioned particularly belongs the credit of putting Rockland back on the roller polo map.

The opening game was on Thanksgiving Day, and when the spectators saw Rockland defeat Bath 5 to 3 the foundation was laid for one of the best polo seasons Rockland ever had, with a semi-professional team.

In conjunction with the games played by the regular team there have been amateur contests galore. The championship of the Amateur League was won by A. C. McLoon's Texaco Stars, and to Mr. McLoon on Thursday night will be presented the silver cup offered by the management to the victor.

At the close of the Amateur League there was a very lively series between the Texaco Stars and John O. Stevens' Polar Bears. This series came opportunely and the name of Mr. Stevens should be added to those who made possible and successful in Rockland this winter. His team won four games to the Texaco's one, but the whole series was a crackjack, and is still talked about.

There was still another "championship" series when the Red Tops accepting the Knox Electric's challenge, won in two straight games.

This little article, however, has to do principally with the team which is now so brilliantly closing the season. Let us glance at the personnel: Arthur St. Aubin, captain and first rush is a resident of New Bedford, Mass., and came to this city originally with the New Bedford All-Stars, a semi-professional team. Mr. St. Aubin is only 22 years of age, but he has played roller polo five seasons, having been in the lineup of the Providence, Lowell, Worcester, New Bedford, Wallingford and Fall River teams of the American Association, and with the Akron, Ohio, team. He is a baseball player in summer, having covered second base for the Fitchburg team of the New England League, and last season was a member of the team which won the championship of the Manufacturers' League in New Bedford. As a polo player he is one of the fastest men seen at the Arcade this season, clever in juggling, and a thorough believer in teamwork.

Anthony Welch, the center, is also a resident of New Bedford, and like St. Aubin is 22 years old. When he came here with the New Bedford team he was a first-class player in a swash-buckler, but they soon found that there was always a "trial twinkle" in his eye and that he was one of the best natured players in the business. He has played professionally on the Providence, Woonsocket and New Bedford teams of the American Association and in Akron, Ohio. He has also played professional baseball in Fitchburg and Springfield, and last season was with the New Departure Coaster Brake League in Bristol, Conn. He is a pitcher, and is always in the back of a scrimmage on the polo surface, and seldom fails to come out without a ball. Like St. Aubin he keeps everlastingly at it.

One of the reasons why opposing teams have found it so hard to score this season is Alton Leroy Wright, who played halfback for the Rockland team the latter half of the season. The writer pronounces him the best defensive player that has been in Rockland this season, and the cleanest polo season Rockland ever had, with a semi-professional team.

Wright is a resident of Bath and a rigger by trade. Gray hairs give a fictitious idea as to his age, for Wright is only 42. He has played polo, on and off for 20 years, and has been a member of Portland, Lewiston, Augusta and Bath teams. He covers a tremendous amount of territory, and while his blocking is most effective he always does it without infringing upon the foul limit. If there has been a more popular player than "Bity" Wright on the Arcade surface season, the writer must have overlooked him.

"The Masked Marvel" is a term which might well be applied to Leigh R. Scott, the Rockland goal tend. Scott is 37 years old, and came to this city from Lewiston, where he had played four seasons as second rush on his home team. The goal seems to be his forte, however. His record this season was 66 stops, made in one of the New Bedford games, but his most brilliant exhibition is conceded to have been given in the second Woonsocket game, when most of his 55 stops were difficult ones. There is nothing of the spectacular in his work or his manner. He is both modest and reliable. Scott came to this city originally as an employee in a laundry, but is now a driver for the American Railway Express.

Two members of the team are strictly local players. One is Rodney Skinner, who has played second rush in nearly all of the games this season. Although 37 years old, he has lost none of the skill which made him famous as a member of the Centrals 16 years ago, and his goal stroke is said to have no superior among the players who have been here this season. Neil Kenney, who is 23, plays a remarkably speedy game on the rush line and has been handicapped greatly by the fact that an accident kept him out of the sport six weeks. Kenney is an all-round athlete, excelling in baseball. He was selected by the Courier-Gazette as all-league shortstop in the Twilight League last season. Skinner was also a member of the Twilight League, playing outfield and pitching.

A good word is also due John Skinner, Dan Sullivan, George Wheeler and Duffy Gilchrist, who have appeared in the Rockland lineup from time to time.

Frank B. Allen, who managed the Rockland polo team this season, is to be congratulated for the capable manner in which he met the many trying situations. He has brought some of the best teams in New England to this city, and every game has been as advertised. In less competent hands such a high-class schedule could scarcely have been arranged or carried out.

Two other faithful officials have contributed to the season's success—Orel E. Davies, timer, and Leon J. White, scorer.

Following are the results of the season's schedule, exclusive of the victory which Manager Allen hopes to add next Thursday night:

Rockland 5, Bath 2.
Rockland 1, Bath 3.
Rockland 3, Bath 4.
Rockland 2, Lewiston 0.
Rockland 10, Lewiston 6.
Rockland 3, Portland 5.

SUMMER LONGINGS
Ah! my heart is weary waiting,
Waiting for the May,
Waiting for the pleasant rambles
With the fragrant hawthorn-brambles,
With the woodbine alternating,
Scents the dewy way.
Ah! my heart is sick with longing,
Longing for the May.

Ah! my heart is sick with longing,
Longing for the May,
Longing to escape from study
To the young face fair and ruddy
And the thousand charms belonging
To the summer's day.
Ah! my heart is sick with longing,
Longing for the May.

Ah! my heart is sick with sighing,
Sighing for the May,
Sighing for the sure returning,
When the summer beams are burning,
Hopes and flowers that, dead or dying
All the winter lay.
Ah! my heart is sick with sighing,
Sighing for the May.

Ah! my heart is pained with throbbing,
Throbbing for the May,
Throbbing for the seaside billows,
Or the water-wading willows,
Where, in laughing and in sobbing,
Glide the stream away.
Ah! my heart, my heart is throbbing,
Throbbing for the May.

Waiting sad, dejected, weary,
Waiting for the May,
Spring goes by with wasted warnings,
Moonlit evenings, sunlit mornings,
Summer comes, yet dark and dreary
Life still ebb away.
Man is ever weary, weary,
Waiting for the May!

The Courier-Gazette

THREE-TIMES-A-WEEK

Rockland, Maine, April 11, 1922.
Personally appeared Frank S. Laddie, who on oath declares that he is president in the office of the Rockland Publishing Co., and that of the issue of The Courier-Gazette of April 8, 1922, there was printed a total of 132 copies. Before me, FRANK S. MILLER, Notary Public.

The restoration of adequate train service to this section of Maine was brought about not without much hard work on the part of a few gentlemen, acting from no other motive than that of the public interest. We again call attention to the matter because of the illustration that it affords of the value to the community of an organized group of citizens moving in concert for the achievement of any purpose directed toward the common good. It was the Rockland City Club that first took up the train question, giving a luncheon to a group of representative business men of the towns served by the railroad, at which a committee was appointed to deal with the matter: John L. Donohue, George B. Wood and Alan L. Bird of Rockland; J. H. Montgomery and J. H. Hobbs, Camden; C. H. Gardner, Rockport; Arthur J. Elliot, Thomaston; N. B. Eastman, Warren; W. A. Vannah and J. T. Gay, Waldoboro; W. D. Patterson, Vinal Haven; Ellis Nash, Damariscotta; J. A. Perkins, Nobleboro. The details connected with the organizing and carrying forward of a campaign have appeared in this paper, a campaign ending in a hearing before the Public Utilities Commission, with the result as known. The amount of effort in gross and detail applied to the undertaking the public cannot see. Only the result of it is visible, but that is of so satisfactory a nature as to evoke the warmest thanks and appreciation of the community.

The additional service that went into effect yesterday has its afternoon train leaving Rockland at 5:30 o'clock. This is too late to make connection at Portland with the New York train, either for mails or passengers. General Passenger Agent Harris informs The Courier-Gazette that this arrangement is to continue only until May 8, when on a new schedule this train will leave Rockland at 4:25, making the New York connection in the same manner as last summer. The 5:30 train of course carries mail that reaches Boston the next morning.

Friday of this week, by Gov. Baxter's proclamation, is made Bird Day in Maine. Calling upon the people, especially the children and the teachers in the schools to make a point of observing the day, the Governor says:

Nature has blessed Maine with a great variety of bird life. It is well for our people, both adults and children, to appreciate the value of our feathered neighbors and to recognize their important relationship to the common welfare.

It is now understood that birds are essential to the protection of crops, that they add materially to the wealth of the State by destroying obnoxious insects, and are of great importance to our agricultural interests.

The study of birds and their habits affords pleasure and recreation to those who indulge in it, and is a subject deserving of more general attention. Our birds should be protected and preserved and this can be accomplished by instilling a love of them in the minds of the children of the State.

Good doctrine. May every reader of this paper be moved by word and example to lend it hearty support.

CAMDEN COUPLE CONVICTED

Dramatic Moments in Supreme Court Trial—Cole Gets Prison Sentence—Woodbury Maker's Promise—Adjournment Today.

After a deliberation of five hours, a drawn jury returned at 10 o'clock Saturday night in supreme court a verdict of "guilty" in the case of Harry M. Cole and Lois E. McAuley of Camden, who were charged by the State with adultery, the maximum sentence of which is five years and the highest possible fine $1000 in the case of each defendant.

The case having occupied the larger part of two days, was given over to the jury at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The most dramatic point of the trial, in so far as concerned a large number of Camden spectators, was reached near the close of the morning session through an ultimatum from Judge Dunn to the effect that Mrs. McAuley must either divulge the authorship of certain sensational letters or else be sent to an environment much more conducive to quiet reflection than the more harassing atmosphere of the court room.

The letters in question were addressed to Mrs. McAuley and were found, according to her husband, in a trunk after she had left her home to work as pastry cook in the restaurant of Harry M. Cole on Bay View street in Camden. The letters were of a somewhat sensational nature, contained considerable tender advice and manifested a quite affectionate and constant regard as relayed from the sender in Providence to the receiver in Camden. The sentiment was penned on stationery whose letter head indicated that it might be used by a salesman selling Apex Cleaners. Admitting during cross examination that he had been employed by the Syracuse Washing Machine Company and that this concern manufactured the so-called Apex Cleaners, Cole vigorously denied ever stopping long enough in Providence to get off the train, not to mention spending sufficient time to pen such lengthy and affectionate epistles. They were not his writings. He said they were not. So did Mrs. McAuley.

"From whom did you receive these letters?" inquired County Attorney Dwinall during the cross examination of Mrs. McAuley.

A hush descended upon the court room in the few seconds of hesitation which ensued, since most of the spectators sensed that this was a crucial point in the trial. The respondent eventually declined to answer. "Madam you shall answer," said Judge Dunn in clear tones that carried perfectly to each expectant ear in the room, "you shall answer correctly, and you shall answer now. Who was the man who wrote those letters?"

After another pause Mrs. McAuley replied that she did not recall his name. Further interrogation on the part of the judge evoked a general statement to the effect that it had been a traveling salesman who had written the letters.

"Madam, this is an extremely critical situation," continued Judge Dunn, "and I want you to fully realize where you are. I am perfectly serious in expecting from you a specific answer to this question for which I am giving you ample time. I tell you now in all the seriousness of my judicial capacity, that if you fail to satisfactorily answer this question the next time I ask it, I shall place you in an environment where conditions for reflection on this matter will be far more favorable than they are now. I think this will be an appropriate time for the jury to take its recess," he concluded, turning from the witness box, "and upon their return, you will be prepared to truthfully answer this question."

During the recess Mrs. McAuley remained seated in the chair near the witness stand. Upon the return of the jurymen, the question was again asked.

"William Larson," was the reply. In the course of further interrogation on the part of the county attorney, Mrs. McAuley said that she had met the gentleman about a year ago, and that he was a traveling salesman selling electrical appliances. His marked regard for her started, according to her testimony, after he had sold her some sort of an electrical device and that they had corresponded ever since. She could not seem to recall the firm he worked for, except that it was not the one by whom Cole was employed. When asked where she sent the letters, she replied that she sent them wherever he happened to be, recalling New London in one instance, and Portland in another. She did not know of anybody in Camden who had seen him. She called him "Square." At the conclusion of Mrs. McAuley's cross examination, M. A. Johnson said that the defense would rest.

W. W. Bowden, former proprietor of the restaurant now owned by Cole, was then called to the stand in rebuttal by County Attorney Dwinall, and testified as to the conducting of business at the time of his departure, the negotiations of the sale and the arrangement of rooms over the restaurant. He said that on the Thursday or Friday preceding the consummation of the deal Nov. 1, he had received a note from Mrs. McAuley to the effect that she knew of a person who would buy the restaurant, an allegation which Mrs. McAuley denied upon being recalled to the stand.

Harold P. Blodgett, local superintendent of the Central Maine Power Company, after being called to the stand, said that Cole had been indirectly employed by his concern through his capacity as a salesman of Apex cleaners. He said that he knew most of the salesmen who sold similar articles in this section, but had never known a William Larson.

The jury before whom the case was tried had Hollis Drinkwater of Camden for its foreman.

Another significant point of the trial was when Cole denied that he had written Mrs. McAuley with reference to the purchase of the restaurant on Bay View street. He expressed his willingness to put his denial in writing, and no objection being made by his attorney, the respondent wrote before the jury and County Attorney Dwinall the following sentence: "I did not write to Mrs. McAuley regard to purchase of restaurant."

Signed H. M. Cole.

During the course of a somewhat laborious process of writing County Attorney Dwinall asked him if he always wrote with his left hand.

"Sometimes I do, and sometimes I do not," was the reply. In making his plea County Attorney Dwinall laid particular stress upon the fact that in both the denial concerning the restaurant, and the compromising letters that formed the State's most important exhibit, the word "write" was misspelled, and that all the final "s's" were crossed obliquely in a similar fashion. The prosecuting attorney said that this was not a chance similarity, but that it conclusively bore out his contention that both were written by Cole.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Johnson filed a motion for a new trial on the grounds that the conviction had followed upon evidence based entirely upon imaginative and suspicious circumstances, and for that reason was contrary to law. He claimed that the only positive evidence was that given by Marjorie, the 15-year-old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McAuley, before the grand jurors and the office of the county attorney, and that even this testimony had been altered when Marjorie was struck with the solemnity and the dignity of the court room.

He then cited several instances whereby innocent persons had been convicted of crimes and requested the judge to consider the evidence in hand. He concluded by saying that everybody does foolish things on occasion and urged that the court consider the frailty of man.

County Attorney Dwinall said he would need that the trial had proceeded in strict accordance with perfectly tangible evidence and that he would endorse the proposed motion for that reason.

"It is my earnest conviction," said Judge Dunn, "that this verdict is eminently righteous one. In such cases there is always a lack of direct evidence, but in this particular one the guilt of these respondents was established through their own mouths to the satisfaction of the jury and I must add also, to the entire satisfaction of myself. For these reasons I pronounce your motion over-ruled."

An appeal was taken to the over-ruled. After a final plea for leniency by the defense on the grounds that this was a first offense on the part of both defendants, and a statement from County Attorney Dwinall to the effect that he had nothing further to say, Judge Dunn said in part:

"I feel very strongly with respect to this case. The home in the fundamental fabric of our national life and when it is undermined by such a phase of society as that which we have been considering, it is bound to totter, fall and result in just such a situation as I now reluctantly face."

After recalling a biblical instance whereby a woman who had sinned was taken for judgment before Christ by a scribe and the Pharisees, he said: "God judges by nature of soul—man judges by overt acts."

"My feelings with reference to Mrs. McAuley are such as prompt me to believe that she was well born, received a fair education and started with good blood. She was married 20 years ago and went to Camden where she continued to live more or less happily. The outward harmony of her domesticity was not seriously interrupted until Cole entered her life. Infatuation which ensued gradually led up to committing the sin that has resulted now in such a sorry domestic fiasco."

"The point which Mr. Johnson brought out in his plea with respect to human frailty and temptation I shall properly consider and in imposing this sentence I shall bear in mind that the tempter hath its snare for all."

"It grieves me exceedingly that on top of this offense should be committed one of a far more heinous type—that of perjury. But I come to this particular case with a heart full of sympathy for both concerned. The imposing of a sentence is always a task of a highly distasteful nature and behind the execution of my judicial duty there is a very real sympathy. With such feelings weighing heavily in my heart, I approach this sentence with the hope that these few words may prompt the respondents to speak for themselves should they feel so disposed. There must be a first time in everything. Success does not consist in the faculty of never failing, but in the aptitude of rising after the fall."

In answer to many questions apropos of her past life, Mrs. McAuley told her age, details of her early married life, how she had always supported herself, how she had always supported her home as a girl, had possessed ambitions and desires for pretty things and generally accounted for her unhappiness of her domestic life from the fact that her husband was satisfied to live in a one room house and unwilling to put up with the simplest of accessories. She said that both of her parents were dead and that she had a younger brother living in Malden, Mass.

Similar questions were answered by Cole, to the effect he had been born in Burnham Junction, that he had been recently divorced, and had been a salesman for the last eight years. He said that he had kept a store in northern Maine for nine years subsequent to his schooling. In conclusion he said how sorry he was for the whole affair, and that he felt convinced that he would never find himself facing a similar situation.

"My mind can not resist the conviction," said Judge Dunn in turning to Cole, "that it was your initiative that brought about this dilemma. I feel strongly that if it had not been for your acts, your carelessness and further manifestations of affection, this affair would never have come to pass."

The punishment imposed upon Cole was a sentence of not less than 18 months or more than 26 months of hard labor at the State's Prison at Thomaston.

Mrs. McAuley was fined $300. Stay of execution was granted pending decision of the Law Court. Bail was placed at $2,000 each.

Woodbury Maker, of Ballyhae, who has been out on bail for a 90-day sentence for intoxication, imposed by Judge Miller in January, was brought before Judge Dunn yesterday. There were several in court who vouched for the fact that Woodbury had led for the past three months a life of sobriety. When asked by the judge if he would promise to be good in the event of another chance, he responded that he was willing to promise anything. He volunteered to stop drinking for five years.

"Do you think you could be a camel?" inquired Judge Dunn. "But seriously, a jail sentence to my mind can never reform a confirmed drunkard. If the avoidance of a jail sentence in such a case works out at all successfully, then the welfare of society has been advanced, the good of man enhanced and the aims of justice attained. If this man has been a drunkard all his life and has demonstrated an ability to maintain a life of sobriety for three months, then he deserves a reward of merit. You shall be placed upon probation in the hands of Probation Officer Clark in accordance with the request of your eminent council, Mr. Campbell, which seems to be endorsed by everybody else concerned including the judge of the lower court and the probation officer."

The juries were dismissed at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a few complimentary words from Judge Dunn apropos of the fair decisions they had made and the efficient manner in which they had concluded their duties. Among the jurors this term there was one woman—Mrs. Abbie Jenkins of Rockport.

Bertie Brodis of Rockport applied for a divorce before Judge Dunn yesterday. His chief cause for dissatisfaction appeared to center about the fact that his wife had once sent him his 4-year-old boy from Boston by parcel post. That is what Brodis said and the court was mildly surprised. The boy was not wrapped up, it was further developed, but was tagged in Boston and occupied the baggage car all the way. The divorce was not granted on the grounds of insufficient service.

Ida A. Lenfest of Appleton, is at liberty to call herself Ida A. Esaney if she so desires, on the strength of a divorce granted yesterday, which had been contested before Judge Dunn. One of the reasons why she got it was on the strength of a weekend party taking place in Malden, at which Mr. and Mrs. Oral W. Collins and Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Lenfest appeared to manifest rather liberal interpretations of moral etiquette. The two young couples had been employed sane at Hawthorn, Mass., and "familiarity" is said to be a charitable term for their friendly association.

Nineteen indictments were returned by the federal grand jury in U. S. District Court, Portland, Friday. The published list includes an indictment against Harvey Cline of Rockland, for violation of the Volstead act. Mr. Cline is now serving a sentence in Cumberland county.

Temporary repairs are being made to the roof of the Walter J. Rich residence on White street, which was badly damaged by fire a few weeks ago. The owner has not yet decided as to what steps will be taken toward rebuilding. Meantime the family is residing in the Oscar E. Blackington residence, 112 Limerock street.

The Sea Products Co. opened another fish market Saturday in Manchester, N. H. It is the largest store of its kind in the Granite State, and is equipped in the same fine and modern style as its predecessors in Maine. Frank E. Whalen of Bath is manager, and is assisted by George Pettengill of Rockland. Mr. Rich's son, Eugene, was present at Saturday's opening, and will remain until the opening of another new store in Concord, N. H., shortly.

A lofty minded feline is the pet cat which belongs to Dr. J. A. Richan's household. Obsessed with the notion that she must climb one of the tall elms in front of the house, pussy is equally determined that she will not descend without a champion. So one day the perplexed but devoted doctor summons the fire department and next day he calls the telephone crew. Perched on the shoulders of her rescuer the cat comes down from her perch cheerfully. "If she would only stay put when she gets down," laments the doctor.

The kitchen cooking cabinet offered by M. E. & C. O. Perry to the person holding the key which would unlock it, fell to Orrin Lawry of Tillson avenue, who opened it with his second key, after a certain amount of haird restaurant had spent half the forenoon trying 80 keys, to the great sacrifice of his patience and Angelle temper. There were 150 keys in circulation. The cabinet is valued at $75, and it is hardly to be wondered at that Mrs. Lawry was delighted.

Somewhat of a practical joker himself, Billy Flint was not surprised Saturday night when he found that the Brook brigands had taken liberties with his automobile which had been left anchored in front of Chisholm's store. The missing tire was finally recovered but when Billy started down the street he was hardly prepared for the racket made by an unusually noisy car which somebody had tied to the rear axle. "Don't care how many jokes they play," quoth Billy, "but I don't want 'em scarring the paint."

Owing to the death of Mrs. Lena Titus the Pythian Sisters supper will be omitted this week.

Herbert B. Barter is opening his new store at the Southend with a demonstration of Rogers' paints, by a skilled salesman and demonstrator.

Joe Moran has been booked for the semi-finals at the Training Station sparring exhibition April 28. A Lewiston boxer will be matched against him.

A Thomaston motor car turning sharply to avoid collision with a Rockland truck knocked over the gasoline pump at Rockland Garage yesterday forenoon. The fire department was called to extinguish the small blaze which resulted.

Noah Beilharz, impersonator gave a very pleasing entertainment in the Methodist church last night, under the auspices of Winslow-Holbrook Post. His presentation of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" was a faithful portrayal of the various characters.

Charles King, aged 42, dropped dead at his home, 87 1/2 Pleasant street, Sunday afternoon, soon after returning from a stroll. Drs. Buchanan and Waggart were summoned, but Mr. King was dead before their arrival. Medical Examiner Crockett decided that an inquest was not necessary. Mr. King was a native of Canada, and had been employed as cook on one of the steam trawlers. He came to this city from New York. His wife, formerly Faustina Pratt of Tenants Harbor, and a son aged 14 months survive him.

This week special Easter services are being held in the First Baptist church every night except Saturday at 7:30. On Friday evening the choir will sing Strainer's cantata, "The Crucifixion." Harold Green and Raymond Green will be the soloists. The public is invited.

The regular circle supper at the Methodist church will be held Wednesday evening. The housekeepers are Mrs. H. V. Tweedie and Mrs. Wallace Little. The supper will be followed by an entertainment and apron sale.

The Landsey House furnishings have been bought by Carl E. Freeman, who was removing them yesterday for shipment to Mason Stevens in Brooks.

The practice of removing dangerous trees, and thinning out superfluous ones is fortunately becoming more common throughout the city. The large tree which had become a menace in front of William D. Holbrook's house on Comden street was cut down last week, and other property owners in that neighborhood have been taking similar steps.

Bond sales for Winslow-Holbrook Post's new home, are still on the increase, and it was announced by one of the workers last night that the total amount would probably not fall far short of the $12,000 fund which is desired.

ELKS INSTALLED

Interesting Ceremony At the Home Last Night—Charlie Proctor Will Smoke.

Rockland Lodge, B. P. O. E. "got the word" last night and with the installation of officers raced away on a smooth track for what promises to be one of the most successful administrations in its history.

John A. Karl, P. E. R., again admirably conducted the installation exercises. In his suite were Almon P. Richardson as grand esquire; also Past Exalted Rulers Frank A. Tirrell, Jr., Lucien K. Green, Gifford B. Butler, E. F. Berry and F. J. Simonton.

One of the most pleasing features of the evening was the presentation of a smoking cabinet to Charles W. Proctor, the retiring exalted ruler. This was done in "Howdy" Waltz's most approved style, and brought a grateful and felicitous response from Mr. Proctor.

All of the lodge reports were of a gratifying tenor. The officers for the coming year are:

Exalted ruler, Everett A. Davis; esteemed leading knight, Walter H. Butler; esteemed loyal knight, Edward R. Veazie; esteemed lecturing knight, Howard B. Waltz; secretary, Albertus W. Clarke; treasurer, Arnold H. Jones; inner guard, Charles E. Heckbert; esquire, E. Russell Richardson; chaplain, Louie L. Aylward; organist, Frank French; trustee, A. P. Richardson; representative to Grand Lodge, C. W. Proctor; alternate F. A. Tirrell, Jr.

The committees for the coming year: House Committee—Thomas Anastasio, chairman, J. N. Southard, treasurer, Sherman Rokes, Austin Richardson, Louie Aylward, Charles Schofield, E. R. Richardson, Earl Charles. Entertainment Committee—E. W. Pike, chairman, George Roberts, Thomas Anastasio, Fred Dyer, E. S. Berry.

Athletic Committee—Fred C. Black, chairman, E. R. Veazie, A. C. McLoon, Clarence Barnard, Sherman Rokes, Lloyd N. Pat Lawrence, Fred Robbins, Charles Mitchell.

New Membership Committee—Fred Simonton, chairman, Walter H. Butler, E. B. MacAllister, Charles E. Merritt, Frank A. Tirrell, Raymond Thurston, George N. Barbour, Edward R. Veazie, Everett A. Davis, Charles W. Proctor, Fred C. Black, Clarence Barnard, E. Stewart Oberton.

Auditing Committee—W. H. Butler, E. R. Veazie, Howard B. Waltz, Earl McIntosh.

Visiting Committee—E. S. Levensaler, chairman, W. W. Case, C. C. McDonald, C. H. E. Seliger, R. M. Packard, W. H. Glendinning, Earl McIntosh, George A. Smith, Adelbert Miles, Al Rawley, A. J. Fernald, Harold A. Robbins, J. H. Hobbs.

Big Brother Movement—G. B. Butler, chairman, M. A. Johnson, E. S. Bird, J. I. Snow, G. H. Blethen, C. A. Creighton, E. B. MacAllister, George F. Barbour, Frank S. Rhodes.

Patriotic Activities—Frank Tirrell, chairman, Ralph Brown, John A. Frost, Lucien Green, Harrison Sanborn, George Wood, A. R. Richardson, A. P. Richardson, Joseph Soffayer, Walter E. Spear, John A. Frost.

Steam Lighter Radium docked at the Bicknell wharf yesterday and proceeded to discharge materials from the remains of the wrecked schooner Joseph S. Zeman. As a result of this "haul" the Bicknell wharf is to be equipped with new cap-sills to replace those which were burned during the lumber yard fire, and with new oak spiling. Capt. E. W. Freeman is superintending these improvements, with Joseph Driscoll as boss blacksmith and Forrest E. Cottrell as boss carpenter.

The street was quite deserted the other night when "The Human Fly" scaled the outside of the W. H. Glover Co.'s building crawled gingerly along the narrow window ledge opened a window and calmly entered Elwell's barber shop. "The Human Fly" was "Huffy", himself, essaying a new role, all because he had slammed the door with the key on the inside. Mr. Elwell's friends had never expected to see him climb that high, whatever they may have thought about those "war prices."

E. B. MacAllister's Cadillac Imperial Limousine went into commission last of the week and attracted no end of admiring attention on Main street Saturday. A duplicate of this fine car has been sold by the Rockland Motor Mart to E. K. Leighton.

The polo game between Rockland and Portland Thursday night is not only the last of the season, but promises to be one of the very best. Billy Yale knows what Rockland has in store for him, and is bringing his very best team in the hope of keeping Portland's victorious slate unbroken. The Portland players are smarter'n steel traps, and gentlemen every minute, and much as it pains us to do it we've got to give them a whipping Thursday night. There will be a fast amateur game as a curtain raiser, and the silver cup offered to the champions of the Amateur League will be awarded to the Texaco Stars. It has been a delightful season, and Thursday night's game will be a pleasant memory to carry through the long summer. Miss it? Not on your life!

THE WHITE PINE BLISTER RUST

Federal Agent Walter O. Frost of Rockland Tells What It Is and How to Conquer It.

No doubt many readers of The Courier-Gazette have read or heard something about the White Pine Blister Rust, and have wondered what kind of a bug or worm is responsible for this new fangled disease.

The White Pine Blister Rust is not a bug or worm, but a low form of plant life which lives in the inner bark of white pine trees and in the leaves of all known kinds of currant and gooseberry bushes. It is one of many thousand fungi—called "Fungi." Some fungi, like mushrooms and toadstools and molds which sometimes grow on bread and preserved fruit, get their food from dead plant material. There are other fungi which live on living plants are called parasites. The plants attacked by these parasites often become sick and die. Parasitic fungi cause such diseases as rots of fruits and vegetables, wilts, blights, smuts and rusts.

The White Pine Blister Rust is but one of a very large number of the parasitic fungi called rusts. Some of these rusts, like Wheat Rust, Apple Rust, and White Pine Blister Rust, cause annually thousands of dollars loss in our country. These rusts differ from all other fungi in that many of them must have two different kinds of plants on which to live before they can become fully developed. Without two plant hosts to live on they cannot complete their growth and therefore die without spreading.

The pine blister or blister rust, is a European disease with a bad reputation in its native country. It has been introduced into America on white pine nursery stock within the last twenty years. Ninety per cent. of all the diseased nursery stock in this country came from a single nursery in Germany. In Europe it has made the growing of white pine impossible in Denmark, Holland and England. The disease now threatens to make the growing of white pine impossible in the United States and Canada and this includes not only the white pine of the east, but the western white pine, the sugar pine, the lumber pine, and other five-needled pines of the West. Although slower in its growth and spread, the pine blister is as dangerous a disease for white pine as the chestnut blight has proved to be for chestnut.

About 20 years ago a white pine reforestation movement was begun in Eastern North America. At that time white pine seedlings could be grown in European countries and sold to the American trade cheaper than they could be obtained from nurserymen in this country. Millions of these trees were imported and were planted in various places in the eastern part of the United States and Canada. Many of the imported trees were diseased with blister rust, which quickly escaped to our native white pine forests, where it found exceptionally favorable conditions for spreading. When the danger was recognized the Federal Government prohibited the further importation of five-needled pines, but the disease had already escaped in many places.

Blister Rust on pine in Maine was first found at Kittery Point, in 1916. This infection centered around a clump of cultivated Black Currants, the age of the infection dating back to about 1904. The discovery of this area led to further scouting for the rust and to date it is safe to say that every town in southern Maine having an appreciable amount of pine has blister rust. The writer in the fall of 1920 very readily found the rust on pines in over 100 towns in several hundred widely separated localities. Since these 100 towns were mainly on the outskirts of the pine area one may safely say that every pine town in Maine has the rust. The rust to date, stage, due to being much scattered, but once this scattered infection reaches the fruiting stage, thereby causing broadcast infection on currant and gooseberry bushes, it is only a question of a few years before the pine growth will become heavily infected, and once a tree becomes diseased with blister rust it rarely, if ever, recovers.

The forest value of the five-needled pine (white pine) in the United States and Canada is conservatively estimated at more than $1,000,000,000. The annual cut is valued at more than $80,000,000, and in the United States the white pine ranks third in lumber production. In 1919 Maine cut very nearly as much white pine as the states of Pennsylvania, Michigan and Wisconsin combined. Can we afford to allow this valuable heritage to be ruined by Blister Rust?

Life Cycle of the Disease

In the spring, sacs of orange-yellow spores or seeds push through the diseased bark of white pines. These sacs or blisters break open, and the wind scatters the powdery spores of seeds over wide areas. Some of them falling upon the leaves of currant and gooseberry bushes germinate and infect the leaf tissue. After two or three weeks of growth, small orange-

Does Your Back Ache?

It's usually a sign of sick kidneys, especially if the kidney action is disordered, passages scanty or too frequent. Don't wait for more serious troubles. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this Rockland testimony.

S. M. Duncan, painter, 602 Main St., says: "I can't use words strong enough in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. I took this medicine on and off for many years. I am a painter by trade and the fumes from the turpentine have a bad effect on my kidneys. I have had bad spells of backache and it was a hard matter to get through with my work. My kidneys didn't act free enough. At these times I always went to Pendleton's Drug Store and got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. It doesn't take long to cure me of the attack. I am only too pleased to give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement." See, at all dealers, Foster-Milburn Co., Manfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

MISS NELLIE WOODSFORD SPEAKS TO MOTHERS

East Boston.—At 23 Lamson St., Mrs. Nellie Woodsford and her children now "live happy and grateful" to the kind neighbor who recommended Dr. True's Elixir to them. Mrs. Woodsford says: "My bowels were out of order and my breath was bad. I was shaky all over. I had terrible headaches and it seemed I had suffered years before your Dr. True's Elixir was brought to me. After a short time I was myself again, my bowels were all right and I'm full of gratitude." Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Worm Expeller has done wonders for children and grownups for over 70 years. Internationally known. Pleasant to take, mild in action. No harmful drugs. 40c—60c—$1.20.

yellow pustules appear on the underside of the leaf. These break open, liberating a different kind of spores, which infect other currant and gooseberry leaves in the vicinity. With favorable weather conditions, this re-infection of currant and gooseberry leaves is repeated every two or three weeks during the summer months and greatly increases the amount of local infection. The orange-yellow pustule stage on the underside of currant and gooseberry leaves is soon followed by numerous brownish hairlike columns. These columns are about one-eighth of an inch long and produce the spores which infect the pine trees. These spores are also scattered by the wind, falling upon white pine needles, where they germinate and grow downward through the leaf into the bark. After a period of growth varying from two to four years in the pine bark, new blisters are produced and give off spores that again start the disease upon currant and gooseberry leaves.

After the blisters are once formed on an infected pine, new ones are usually produced annually until the tree is killed. About a year after pine twigs become infected they show a more or less spindle-shaped swelling of the bark. The canker, or swollen area, is usually outlined by a greenish yellow margin, which is often tinged with orange. Inside of this margin the diseased bark is a green of a lighter shade than the normal olive green of the healthy bark.

As the canker approaches maturity, small drops of a sweet tasting fluid appear on the discolored bark during the summer and fall. These drops dry out, leaving small yellowish spots of variable shape that soon become dark reddish brown in color. From April to June many orange-yellow blisters about the size of a navy bean break through the bark of mature cankers. These blisters or sacs are full of orange-yellow spores. When they burst open, the spores are scattered by the wind, leaving small ragged holes or spore pits in the bark.

After the blisters are formed, the bark becomes irregularly cracked, and all parts of the branch beyond the canker gradually die. The green needles fade to a straw color, and then to a deep brown, finally dropping. With the death of the branch beyond the canker, the disease continues its downward growth in the live bark at the rate of 2 to 5 inches a year. It works backward from the top into larger limbs and trunk, which it eventually girdles, killing the tree. White Pine Blister Rust can be controlled by uprooting currant and gooseberry bushes. A diseased pine cannot directly infect another pine. The spores forward from the diseased pine produce infection only on currant and gooseberry bushes.

Exhaustive tests by the Federal Government have proven that the removal of such bushes for a distance of 200 to 300 yards will protect growths of young pine from the disease. Unless this is done in the very near future Maine's white pine crop may be seriously injured.

Lillian Pease and children have been quite ill with grippe.

Rev. C. F. Smith was a caller at Willie Bryant's and Arthur Fish's one afternoon this week.

Why the $10.90 USCO is better than just a $10.90 tire

On November 10, 1921, the 30 x 3 1/2 "USCO" was marked to sell for $10.90.

This odd and closely figured price was the lowest quotation ever made on any tire of known standards.

A genuine pioneering step by the makers of U. S. Tires.

Now comes a lot of different $10.90 tires being rushed into the market. "Special" tires. "New" treads.

Unfamiliar to look at—with perhaps an atmosphere of having been made to meet the price.

But the "USCO" still occupies a place by itself. A good old standby on millions of cars for years. Better than it ever was.

Still putting the emphasis on honest quality, even if it does sell for only ten dollars and ninety cents.

The $10.90 tire with the record of a proven product.

The tire that people still buy for the dignity of its quality regardless of the low amount they pay.

Capt. James Fales left last week for Bermuda, where he will join his steamer, The Corona. The Corona, which is a freight and passenger steamer, sails from Italy, and will upon the arrival of the captain sail immediately for Cadiz, Spain.

MRS. JOHN DONOHUE

The funeral services of the late Mrs. John Donohue, who died last Thursday morning at her home in Thomaston, took place Saturday morning, with requiem mass at St. James church. Rev. Fr. Drury officiated. The presence of so many friends, to whom she had become endeared by a lifetime of kindly acts and deeds, told eloquently the story of one who will be sadly missed by the large family and the large circle of friends. Surrounding the casket at her own home were other messages of sympathy—many and beautiful; the message told with flowers. The bearers were Angus McDonald, Charles McDonald, Edwin Keating and William Felt.

Death came to Mrs. Donohue on her 72d birthday. She had been afflicted for a number of years with Bright's disease, but bore her ailment with patient and uncomplaining spirit and continued her usual trend of domestic duties until about six weeks ago, when she became confined to her bed. Mrs. Donohue's maiden name was Mary Elizabeth Fahey. She was married in June, 1875. She is survived by her husband, and eight of nine children born of that union—Katherine, Julia, Mary, Evelyn, Anna, and Elizabeth Donohue, Mrs. F. J. Dooley of Medford, Mass., and John Donohue of Springfield. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Katherine Cronin of St. Cloud, Minn.

MARTINSVILLE

The Ladies circle met with Mrs. Ada Harris Thursday with a good attendance.

G. K. Marshall of West Somerville, Mass., spent the weekend in town.

School begins on Monday with Mrs. Russell Tabbutt as teacher.

A poverty social is to be held at the granite hall Friday evening.

Granville Bachelder is attending court in Rockland.

Miss Elizabeth Harris attended the Teachers' convention held in Rockland last Friday.

The ladies' circle is to hold a 5-cent social at the granite hall, April 21. Ice cream and home made candy will be on sale. Receipts will be used to pay the amount due on the running expenses of the church.

THE DANCE RECITAL

Young Folks Entertain Large Audience in Watts Hall.

Miss Jennie S. Harvey scored another success Friday evening, with her juvenile ball and dance recital in Watts hall, Thomaston. A very large audience admired the skill and grace shown by the young folks, and it was generally expressed, wish that Miss Harvey may return to Thomaston another season.

The march and polka, in which the classes participated was led by Jane and Joel Miller.

The participants of the Sir Roger de Coverley Dance were Edith Kellar, Naomi Averill, Verona Comstock, Audrey Pillsbury, Lucy Sukeforth, Jane Miller, Kathryn Scott, Mildred Demmons, Ruth Pillsbury, Barbara Elliot, Alice Collamore, Kathryn E. Creighton, Evelyn Gleason, Elizabeth Creighton, Edgar Ames, James Fales, John Creighton, Warren Everett, Stephen Lavender, Gordon Spaulding, Tom Scott, William Manning and Joel Miller.

The first part closed with a cleverly executed exhibition march, led by Elizabeth Creighton and Barbara Elliot.

The aesthetic, interpretative and toe dancing by Charlotte Cahill Rausser was a source of delight to one of the most appreciative audiences the dainty Bath dancer has ever appeared before.

The march militaire by Mary Bird, Martha Wasgratt and Estella Hall was done in a brisk, snappy manner, and with true military precision. Phyllis Brown of Rockland won new laurels with her Egyptian dance, and another Rockland girl who came in for much applause was Mary Wasgratt, who so gracefully led the Rose Petals dance.

Other members on the program, which evoked the boundless admiration of the spectators included: Rondino, Alice Collamore, Edith Kellar, Naomi Averill, Verona Comstock, Audrey Pillsbury, Lucy Sukeforth and Ruth Pillsbury. Dancing Dolls, Evelyn Perry and Vera Studley. Conquette, Madelyn Coffey; Irish Lilt, Kathryn Creighton, Jane Miller, Barbara Elliot, Elizabeth Creighton, Kathryn Scott, Evelyn Gleason, and Mildred Demmons; Jockey Dance, Betty Benson; Italian Tarantella, Ruth Lawrence, Eleanor Bird, Madelyn Coffey, Phyllis Kellar, Vera Nye and Ruth McBeath. It was found necessary to repeat the Irish Lilt, so insistent was the applause.

The march which served as the finale to the delightful entertainment, was led by James Fales and Katherine Creighton.

WARREN

In accordance with a recent proclamation of Governor Baxter all schools will have exercises Friday afternoon of this week in observation of Bird Day. It is hoped that many of our busy parents and friends may visit our schools on that date, Friday, April 14. All of the regular teachers in town who were not prevented by sickness attended the County Convention at Rockland which was one of the most practical meetings ever held for Knox County teachers. Mrs. Berry who is substituting for two weeks at Hinkley Corner, kindly taught on that day as the work of this school has already been broken. Mrs. Davis is slowly improving but will not be able to teach this week.

H. A. Allan, Rural School Agent, of the State Department of Education, who visits the various towns of the State every few years made his official visit here last Thursday. The morning was spent in looking over the High School building and considering ways of enlarging it to meet our present needs. In the afternoon our village schools were visited and Mr. Allan expressed his decided approval of the excellent work of our village teachers of whom we should be justly proud. The last visit of the afternoon was at the Intermediate school. He advised that plans be made to do away with this building, not only because of the fact that there was no playground but also because of the fact of its being so near the garage, which must of necessity be so noisy at times, that repeated interruptions in the work must be made. He especially urged that citizens be informed as to the need of more room at the High School building and that while this building was being enlarged that accommodations be made for this school.

The spring series of Friday parties and dances, which are to round out the social season at the Country Club will not begin the present week, owing to Good Friday, but next week instead.

Mrs. Frank Clark left yesterday for Mt. Vernon, N. Y., where she will make a six weeks' visit with Mrs. Frank Van Rensselaer.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Dolliver have leased the western tenement of the O. E. Blackington residence on Limerock street. Walter J. Rich and family are with them for the present.

Mrs. Horace E. Lamb has gone to Boston for a fortnight's visit.

Edward Packard of Litchfield returned this morning after a brief visit with his niece, Mrs. Annie Simmons.

Miss Florence Gifford, of Evanston, Ill., who has been the guest of Miss Lucy Fuller, a classmate at Lasalle Seminary, leaves tomorrow noon for Portland where she will visit other friends until Saturday.

The women of the Universalist church are having an Easter sale Wednesday afternoon, with supper at 6.30. The housekeepers will be Mrs. Grace Black, Mrs. Mabel McLoon, Mrs. Nettie Wotton, Mrs. Freda Smith, Mrs. Eva Heller, Mrs. Charles Folsom, Miss Martha Cobb, Miss Therese Rankin, Mrs. Hazel Black and Mrs. J. A. Burpee.

Mrs. Frank Pierce, who has been the guest of Mrs. F. C. Knight the past two weeks has gone to Peaks Island, where she is getting her summer home ready for the season's occupancy. She was accompanied by Miss Minnie Diamond, who will visit at Peaks Island and Portland.

Mrs. Sarah Pillsbury of Woodford is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Paul Staalesen at the head of the Bay.

Sheer silk hosiery is most wanted, it seems. The favored colors are nude, polo and various beige and tan shades. Gray is not called for in the East, as much as it has been, but it appears to be maintaining its vogue in the West. Even the staple blacks, browns and whites are being affected somewhat by the demand for colors although, of course, they still constitute the bulk of the business. There is a decided demand for both embroidered and open-work cloths. The latter especially are said to be growing in favor, and are likely to attain quite a vogue this summer. The lengthening of the skirts is being reflected in a strong call for silk hosiery with little top and foot.—Dry Goods Economist.

Miss Madeline Colson, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Eliza Colson, left Saturday for Boston, where they are to visit for a few days.

Richard A. Rhodes of Portland spent the weekend with relatives in this city.

Mrs. Joseph Clark of Belfast has returned home after spending several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. B. G. Eveslage, 14 Camden street.

The Kallach Class of the First Baptist church will meet with Mrs. Wesley Post, 113 Pleasant street, Friday afternoon, to sew.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Eveslage of 14 Cedar street, gave a birthday party recently in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Nash. Supper was served and an enjoyable evening was spent.

The last rehearsal for the Easter Monday pageant at the Congregational church will be held Friday afternoon after school at the vestry.

There will be an initiation at the Relief Corps Thursday evening, and a rub orchestra will furnish music for the entertainment.

Mrs. Beulah S. Oxtun is seriously ill with pneumonia at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Emery, Limerock street.

J. H. Wiggin, who has been spending the winter at The Laurie, has returned to his home at 74 Broad street.

The Harmony Club has quite elaborate plans for an auction party and entertainment, which it will give in Hotel Rockland Friday, April 21.

Miss Madelyn Chisholm has returned from New York, where she has been the guest for several months of Miss Dorothy Coburn.

The annual meeting of the Methuen Club was held at the Country Club Friday, the president, Mrs. Ruth Ellingwood being the hostess. The entertainment committee ably assisted on this occasion, all plans for the luncheon and entertainment being in their hands. By a rising vote of the club the members attested their appreciation of the success of this committee the past year. Twenty-seven members were present and did full justice to the various tempting dishes that were set before them. At 2.30 adjournment was made to the parlors, where the business meeting was held. The secretary's report for the year showed that there had been a very good attendance for the year, with 15 new members. The treasurer's report gave all outstanding bills paid, including endow-

STERLING PIANOS

Now Sold In Rockland.

The Maine Music Company has recently ordered the agency for the famous "Sterling" piano and Rockland people are fortunate indeed to have a piano of this quality and value represented by their local dealer. While the Sterling has never before been shown in this city it has been sold by the best piano and music houses elsewhere for many years and is one of the best known pianos in the State.

In the careful selection of a piano for the home you may note the structural integrity of Sterling in the sturdiness, massive timbering of the back; in the heavy iron frame which covers the area of the "wrest plank" and supports the entire foundation of acoustics; in the bearing of strings and strength of poise of the entire mechanical assembly. These features assure permanence, retention of pitch and preservation of tone—but more than that they voice their presence in tone volume and Sterling personality.

On this groundwork of honest fundamentals, the artistic characteristics of the Sterling have been developed:—the lively, easy touch; the delicacy of tone control, the humanness of its response to the musical conception of the artist. These qualities in Sterling endure, because sturdiness has come before.

Sterling case designs are all that you would look for to accompany Sterling substantialness in other respects. Simple lines, but masterly in their simplicity; harmonious in any home surroundings. More conscientious care could not be put into finishing, nor materials of finer worth.

The standard of all Sterling action is the same:—7 1-2 octaves, A to C; overstrung scale, copper-wrapped bass strings, repeating action, full iron frame, ivory keys, three pedals. Every case is double-venered on hardwood, and highly finished; full-length swing music desks, folding fallboard. Sizes varying in the several different models.

You will find the Sterling in music or piano houses identified with reliable merchandise and integrity in trade relations, where service to the customer is paramount. Sterling prices are moderate at all points of distribution; provision is made for time payments and fair exchange allowances for used instruments. Catalogs mailed upon request.—adv.

ment assessment in full: $58.25 to the Public Library and $5 to the Near East Relief. The balance in the treasury is $55.70. The nominating committee presented the following list of officers, which were duly elected: President, Mrs. Ruth Ellingwood; vice president, Mrs. Stella Sheldahl; secretary, Mrs. Clara Cole; treasurer, Mrs. Emma Shaw; directors, Miss Caroline Stanley, Mrs. Ava Jackson; auditor, Mrs. Elizabeth Nash. The president accepted her office in a very gracious manner, and in a very pleasing address reviewed the work of the past year, thanking all who had helped to make the season a success; also expressing the desire that all would strive as hard to make the next year even more successful and interesting. The outgoing committee for next summer is Mrs. Bernice Havenner, Mrs. Elizabeth Davis, Mrs. Maude Eaton, Mrs. Mattie Little, Mrs. Nettie Perry, Mrs. Clara Cole was elected a delegate to the convention in Bar Harbor. The paper for the afternoon was by Mrs. Mabel Crie on "Manufactures and Commerce." Solos, "The Lost Chord" and "Good-Bye Summer," were sung by Mrs. Rachel Browne. This part of the program was very much enjoyed and the spring luncheon passes on into the club history as a great success.

King Hiram Council, R. & S. M., is planning a big meeting at Camden, May 12, preceding which the band and patrol will give a street parade. King Hiram Council has a reputation for its fine work under the new ritual, and observers from a number of other cities are aiming to attend this meeting.

MRS. ANNIE E. BIRD

The death Saturday morning from pleuro pneumonia of Mrs. Annie E. Bird, aged 81, came with unexpected suddenness as her recovery from the illness had only a day or two before seemed well advanced. The news brought sorrow to the very great group of friends, by whom Mrs. Bird was tenderly loved. Funeral services are held this afternoon from the home of the son, Henry B. Bird, at 250 Broadway. The officiating clergymen will be Rev. Benjamin P. Browne, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Rev. Willard L. Pratt, his predecessor, now of the Stoughton street Baptist church in Boston. The bearers will be the four sons, and interment will be in the family lot at Achorn cemetery.

Mrs. Bird was born at Ash Point, South Thomaston, May 25, 1841, daughter of Alvin and Eliza (Hall) Bird. The father died before the child's birth and the mother in her young girlhood, she was taken into the home of her aunt, Nancy Hall Brown, at Blackington's Corner, and from her received a mother's care. Sept. 25, 1859, she was married to Sidney M. Bird, who died in 1907, and of which union five sons were born: Newbury, who died at age 16, Elmer S., Maynard S., Henry B. and Alan L. Bird, who survive their mother.

July 16, 1882, under the pastorate of Rev. W. C. Barrows, Mrs. Bird united with the First Baptist church, toward whose interests her future life exhibited a steady devotion. Her friendships were many, and love for her ran in deep channels throughout a very wide circle. Her nature was sunny, her Christianity was of the joyous and practical kind and her helpfulness toward others blessed a great number in whose hearts her memory will be cherished. Her married and home life were ideal. The sons who survive and to whom her affections were steadily devoted "rise up and call her blessed."

Capt. A. F. Pillsbury of Berkeley, Calif., who is in the East for a month, on business connected with the San Francisco shipping firm of Pillsbury & Curtis, was a weekend guest at Mrs. M. K. Sprague's, Limerock street.

A miniature fishing schooner fully rigged, attracts attention in the south window of H. H. Crie & Co.'s hardware store. It was fashioned in idle moments by Elen Crie, who has been spending the winter here. Alongside the trim little craft is a placard which reads thus: "I am not a rum-runner, but a Yankee fisherman, who expects to trim them for flooding our good old Prohibition State of Maine."

WINS HONOR ABROAD

Niece of Miss Walker Selected
For Sorbonne Fellowship.

The San Francisco Examiner publishes a portrait of Miss Dorothy Louise Mackay of that city, who has just been chosen from among the women graduates of all American colleges and universities for the annual fellowship in France offered by the American Association of American Women for research work at the Sorbonne.

Miss Mackay is a niece of Miss Louise L. Walker, who taught school in Rockland 40 years, and was a visitor here two years ago. The Examiner says of her:

"Miss Mackay has been doing research work at the University of Paris since last July. Upon her arrival she was appointed one of the two girls to represent the United States student colony as resident member of the Foyer International des Etudiants, of which she was later elected vice-president.

"The Californian winner has yet been unable to accept the scholarship, because she was granted only one year's leave of absence from the San Francisco school authorities and unless this leave is extended she will be obliged to return home to resume teaching. Besides her research work in history at the Sorbonne, Miss Mackay has also been writing a book on the mediaeval hospitals of Paris.

"Miss Mackay is the daughter of Mrs. Lilla Pales Mackay of 166 Saturn street, San Francisco. She was graduated from the University of California in 1915 with the degree of bachelor of arts, and the following year she received her master of arts degree in history. After graduation she became a teacher under the San Francisco school department.

OWLS HEAD'S FUTURE

It Will Grow If Its Friends Put In Some Real Work

Editor of The Courier-Gazette: Twenty-five years ago houses in the village of Owls Head were filled with ex-sea captains and their descendants. Today we see about a dozen of the old faces. Where are they all? Many of the older ones have gone to their long home. Many of the younger generation have gone out to different parts of the United States and are making enviable records in the business and professional world.

What now of the little town—for it is a real town—and what is it going to make of itself? Is the new-born town to grow or is it going to remain an infant, stunted and forlorn, unrecognized by its neighbors and the world in general—or will it place itself on the map, so that people will know there is somebody and something here. It can and it must be brought up out of its present condition.

It is up to the people, and especially the newly elected officers of the town, to see that the fishing business is revived; that a fine up-to-date summer hotel is built; that poor old Crescent Beach, the pride of our good and well-meaning Fred Smith, be put into shape, with an efficient person to carry it on.

Another much discussed item in the town are the roads. There probably isn't a place in the State that has as much travel, especially in the summer, and has had so little done for its roads. There is a stretch from the Mass place to the Creek bridge which should be tagged "impassable." That piece of road has had nothing done to it in the last thirty years. It is someone's business to see that an everlasting piece of road is put down there, and done at once. If someone doesn't get after it, another thirty years will roll by and some new voices will be talking about what ought to be done, but for lack of action never was.

Slogan: More action, less words.

Robert L. Emery.

Winchester, Mass., April 8.

Local bowlers were a bit envious last week when they read in the Globe that Paul Poehler had hung up the record-breaking string of 198 in Boston. His three-string total was 457. And there were no flies on the special match which took place in Portland last week, when Ralph Pearson defeated Cyclone Kelley 1193 to 1112.

OUR GRANGE CORNER

About 80 Patrons assembled at the hall of Wessaweskeag Grange, South Thomaston Saturday afternoon for the April session of Limerock Valley Pomona. Owing to the absence of some members several changes had to be made in the announced program for the afternoon which was given thus:

Address of welcome, S. A. Rackliff; response, F. A. Blackington; singing, by the Grange; reading, Jeanne Morgan; question: "Shall we have the present Highway Commission Law, or a new one and vote on it this fall?" discussed by several; original poem, Aurelia Ripley; readings, Georgia Snow and Margaret Gilchrist; singing, 13 in the hall of St. George Grange.

The next meeting will be held May 13 in the hall of St. George Grange.

THE PRATTLER

The Courier-Gazette office has been swamped with inquiries as to the final disposition of Looft Lirpa—that bold bad man of Ballyhac, whose murky cavern and heinous crimes were exploited in this column the first of the month. We have been quite busy lately and have not had time to look into the matter. It is quite a self-important feeling to realize that we alone know the fate of this desperate and lawless one. Since it was a tip from us that brought about his capture, the authorities have given us full power as to what shall be done with him. It was rather nice of them to place such confidence in our judgment, but we don't quite know whether to appreciate it or not. If so disposed, we can crush him like an egg-shell and thus cut off forever this Scandinavian demon's career; or on the other hand we can let him live, even though it may seem to some that he deserves to die. To be frank, we do not take kindly to the idea of snuffing him out of existence. There are a good many laudable points about Looft. Unprincipled, eccentric, relentless, lawless? Yes, but he can be quite kindly at times and often manifests a breadth of human sympathy that places him above most criminals. Educated, in a sense cultured, well read, widely travelled, he is a lover of the fantastic, the unreal, the romantic. We inferred this in a way upon learning that he had named his dog "Scheherazade." Unscrupulous in many ways, Looft dearly loves a joke.

In view of his solitary and wild mode of life, several have expressed a desire to see for themselves this mysterious cavity of nature whose mouth is choked at high tide with tons of soapy surf, and whose salty walls reverberate with the moan of the restless sea, the discordant cries of howling sea birds, or possibly the hollow baying of "Scheherazade," the Scandinavian weasel hound. In view of the large number of such requests, we are seriously contemplating the organization of a tour of inspection to Ballyhac. Some might be a trifle disappointed, but still it could be made a very enjoyable trip. Perhaps Looft can be prevailed upon to boil us some lobsters and to pass out some of that delectable Swedish punch that he alone knows how to make. Of course there is ample time for preparation, for it would not be practical to go much before next April Fool's Day, but we thought that if quite a few of us sight seeing bus something like the ones they use in New York to carry suckers down to Chinatown and The Ghetto. On the sides there would be signs such as "TO LOOFT LIRPA'S CAVERN" or "IF DRY, JUMP IN" or "THIS IS LIRPA'S DAY!" It ought to be quite a pleasant trip. Send in your applications now to The Prattler and avoid the rush. The entire front seat of the bus has already been reserved for The Lewiston Evening Journal, for they have shown more than ordinary interest in appropriating the entire story as their own and headlining this "STRANGE OUTLAW, WITH VENGEANCE HIS MISSION" who "LURKED IN A CAVERN"—this "Remarkable Story From Rockland of Looft Lirpa, His Savage Dog and His Slight-Destroying 'Dope'—Like Some Fantastic Motion Picture Scenario." However, for all interested ones desiring reservations on the Ballyhac bus, we would suggest for those who have not already done so, to begin at the right and spell backward the words: Looft Lirpa.

Speaking of April fools, on the first day of April three years ago we were an exceedingly modest divisional portion of the army of occupation in Germany. On that particular day our roommate and myself had skipped drill and were enjoying ourselves exceedingly on the sun-flooded court to the rear of the house where we were quartered. The breath of spring was in the air, a troop of crows had popped their heads through the old frau's garden, a butterfly or two flitted about the court, and we were comfortably ensconced in rocking chairs. While the rest of the soldiers were squad righting, left obliquing and cursing under their breaths in all directions on the drill field, we were smoking our pipes and luxuriatingly rocking in that sunny court. Suddenly Berta, a most attractive and spirited fraulein who was one of the family where we lived, appeared at the gate. Her eyes were sparkling and her cheeks were flushed.

"Raus! Raus! Der Oberst kommt!" she said, (which means, beat it, the colonel is coming!). We and our room-mate nearly broke our necks doing just that. The recruiting chairs went over with a bang and we jumped over a dozen or two squawking hens in dashing into the cow's stall where we hoped to escape detection. The cow glanced around in terror and mood in amazement upon viewing her two wild-eyed callers. She continued to jump, and we and what her tail, and we continued to stay in her domain rather than face the gentleman who was approaching to inspect our military effects. Of course we would not think of entering a cow's stall now if that same gentleman should approach, but the army was the army and things were different. Suddenly we heard a peal of feminine laughter that was as musical and joyous as any laughter that has ever come from a sylvan glade in any poetry. Naturally it was immediately tracked down. There was Berta by the garden window, and an explanation from her eyes with her apron as we clattered in our hob-nailed shoes from the cow's stall.

"April Narr! April Narr!" she cried when she was able to talk—and we were indeed a pair of them.

Nothing positive is known about the origin of April Fool's Day although there have been various explanations. One gravely goes back to Noah and the Ark, saying that the custom arose from the mistake of Noah sending the dove out of the Ark before the waters had abated, but such an explanation has no leg to stand on. All Fool's Day is far older and far younger than the Christian era—older if considered a day set apart at which to enjoy a joke upon one's neighbor—younger if the merriment be especially associated with the first of the year. The French name for an April fool, "poisson d'avril," means exactly what it says, "an April fish"—a young fish and therefore a fish easily caught.

There is a story of how Francis, Duke of Lorraine, and his wife escaped from captivity in Nanterre on April 1st. In peasant disguise, they walked boldly past the sentries. Detecting them, someone ran ahead and told the guards, who laughed in derision. "Poisson d'avril!" they shouted knowingly, and thus did the pair make their escape.

Clint Young invited a few of the citizens for a ride Sunday in his speedster Theda Bara, alias Henrietta Ford. Oh, how the dust did fly.

It did seem good to see our friend Del Babbidge at the Ewell Department Store yesterday, even if we didn't get that ride on his bob-sled.

Winslow Keene underwent a slight operation at Silsby Hospital recently.

Roy Clark is confined to his home with a severe cold.

Don't forget the Community Club Thursday at 3.30, at the schoolhouse.

There is to be a baked bean supper and everything good Wednesday night at Rockville hall. A grand big social afterwards.

WASHINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Rivers are to celebrate their silver wedding anniversary Saturday, April 22, when they will receive friends from 8 to 10 p. m. Invitations have been issued.

The spring term of the High School will begin April 17 with the same teacher, Wayne McNelly of Clinton, who has taught the past two terms and given excellent satisfaction.

The class parts were assigned during the latter part of the winter term and are as follows: Lucy Fuller, valedictory; Eva McDonald, salutatory; Doris Overlock, class prophecy; Burnell Overlock, presentation of gifts; Calvin Maxey Bowes, class history; Roy Light, class will; Louise Lincoln, essay; Erma Light, essay. It is to be regretted that there will be no graduation, but owing to a slight misunderstanding which arose, it was decided to go on a trip instead which will not doubt be enjoyed much more by the class. As yet no definite arrangements have been made as to where the trip will be.

ROCKPORT

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Russ of Melrose, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Weed.

Edgar P. Shibles left Saturday for Portage Lake, where he will build a cottage for his son, Stanley Shibles. Enroute he spent Sunday with his son Lester and family in Orono.

The residence of Edw. W. Spear, Camden Road was destroyed by fire Sunday morning about 10.30. The Camden chemical was called to assist our Fire Department. The furniture was saved but the building is considered a complete loss, partially covered by insurance. The exact cause of the fire is unknown. Mr. and Mrs. Spear were fortunate in securing shelter in a part of what is known as the Capt. William H. Thorndike place only a short distance away and the former home of Mrs. Spear.

Miss Dorothy Robinson returned Sunday from the Silsby Hospital Rockland where she was recently operated upon for appendicitis and is reported to be convalescing quite rapidly.

Miss Lucy Stinson is at home from the Gorham Normal School to spend the Easter recess with her parents, Capt. and Mrs. G. W. Stinson.

Mrs. Sarah Buzzell returned Saturday to Bangor, where she has been spending several months with her daughter Mrs. C. E. Walsmsley.

The annual Easter supper will be served at the Baptist vestry Wednesday, April 12 from 5.30 to 7 o'clock. During the afternoon there will be a sale of aprons and caps.

Mrs. Cecilia Cain is able to be out after being confined to her home by illness for the past four weeks.

Miss Mildred Robinson was the guest of friends in Bangor for the weekend.

Mrs. Ellen Shepherd is spending a few weeks with her niece Miss Lena Cleveland in Camden.

Fred J. Parsons who spent Sunday in town, left Monday for a trip to Augusta, Gardiner, Hallowell and other adjacent towns.

Mrs. Clara Clifton and Howard E. Berry of Hoboken, N. J., were guests of Mrs. Nettie Lane Sunday.

H. L. Withe attended the Democratic convention in Augusta, last week and Saturday evening was a guest at the Colby A. T. O. banquet at the Elmwood Hotel in Waterville.

Myron Roberts returned Sunday to East Friendship and resumed teaching Monday.

Mrs. Jennie Harkness returned Saturday from St. Petersburg, Florida, where she has been spending the winter and is occupying her home on West street.
